A MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN ... THE J. D. DEGREE

The American Bar Association has been urging the adoption of the J. D. (Doctor of Jurisprudence) degree to replace the LL.B. as the first professional degree in law. A bachelor's degree merely indicates a first degree from a college or university and a large number of law school graduates being awarded the LL.B. degree already have received another bachelor's degree. The J.D. is a professional degree and is to the legal profession what the M.D. is to the medical profession. It places law graduates on the same basis as graduates from medical and other professional schools. Of the 135 ABA accredited law schools, approximately 70 have already adopted the

Harold C. Warner

J.D. as the first professional degree in law. Many of the remaining schools have it under consideration. The American Bar Association also favors a liberal attitude towards granting the J.D. degree retroactively as means of standardizing the degree.

In June of 1967, the U-T Board of Trustees authorized the College of Law to award the J. D. (Doctor of Jurisprudence) degree as a substitute for the Bachelor of Laws degrees. Therefore, at the August, 1967 Commencement, all of our law graduates were awarded the J.D. degree. Subsequently, on October 13, 1967, the Board of Trustees made the J.D. degree completely retroactive so that any law alumnus may now obtain the degree by making application and paying a nominal fee to cover the cost of the diploma. An application form for U-T College of Law Alumni who wish to receive the J.D. degree is enclosed.

The increasing enrollment at the College of Law presents a perennial problem. In the Fall Quarter, 1966, there were 156 students in the entering class; the total enrollment was 480. We found that a student body of this size strained our physical facilities and our faculty resources to the limit. Classrooms were over-crowded, study spaces in the library and stacks were inadequate, and the halls were too congested to permit free movement between classes.

In an attempt to alleviate this situation, we decided to try to restrict the size of the student body to 450. The only feasible way of accomplishing this was a reduction of the size of the entering class.

The chief enrollment projection problem encountered was that of multiple applications. All law schools are faced with the dilemma. Many students apply to several schools hoping to increase their chances of acceptance. This is verified in a study of our records for the past five years which disclose that only 60-65 percent of the applicants who were accepted for the Fall Quarter actually enrolled in the Law College. In order to make the acceptance as firm as possible, we therefore required all applicants accepted for the Fall Quarter 1967 to make a $50.00 reservation deposit before June 1, 1967, in addition to their statement of intent to enroll. If the applicant actually enrolled, the deposit would be applied towards the tuition for the Fall Quarter; if he did not enroll the deposit would be forfeited. While this plan was not as effective as we had hoped, it did assist us in limiting the entering class to 126, but the over-all enrollment climbed to 470.

There have been some changes in the Faculty. William H. Wicker, Dean Emeritus and Professor of Law, retired in August 1967. Dean Wicker has accepted a one year appointment as Visiting Professor at Drake University School of Law, Des Moines, Iowa. Professor Donald T. Weckstein was granted a leave of absence for the academic year 1967-1968 to accept a visiting professorship at the University of Connecticut School of Law.

Three new full-time members have joined the law faculty as Assistant Professors:

Jerry J. Phillips is a graduate of Yale College, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and of the Yale Law School. He also received the M.A. degree at Cambridge University, England. He had been an associate in the Chattanooga law firm of Miller, Martin, Hitching, Tipton & Lenihan for the past six years. At present he is teaching courses in Contracts.

Harry M. Welsh is a graduate of the University of Toledo with the B.A. and J.D. degrees with a very high record. He also received the LL.M. at the University of Michigan in 1967. He is teaching Contracts and Secured Transactions.

The life of the fraternity has recently been marked by a great deal of vigorous and enthusiastic campaigning for fraternal offices. Fred Lewis is the new Magister of PDP, followed by Hale Hamilton, Vice-Magister, Bill Redick, Exchequer, Mac Gentry, Clerk, and Charles Cornelius, Historian. PDP members were active in the recent Student Bar Association elections and we congratulate new SBA Vice-President John Buffalo; Treasurer, Saxby Chambliss; Secretary, John Slack; and SBA Representative, Jim Everett.

On Friday, November 10, PDP held another outstanding social event at the McGhee-Tyson Officers Club. Everyone got thoroughly warmed up for the Homecoming game to the music of Jimmy Reed Pryor and his band. Future social events are now in the advanced planning stage and include the traditional Phi Delta Phi Winter Quarter Banquet and Dance which promises to be the outstanding affair of the Quarter.

SBA Elects New Officers

Student Bar activities for the Fall Quarter were headlined by an outstanding Speaker Program organized by Larry Parrish. On October 10, Franklin Orth, a leading spokesman for the National Rifle Association, spoke on the NRA's opposition to the Dodd-Celler fire-arms control bill. The second speaker of the series was Donley J. Stocking, who spoke on the "Impact of Patents on Society." B. B. Gullett, President of the Tennessee Bar Association, discussed the problem of the lawyer in the computer age. On November 21, Dr. A. D. Holt, President of the University of Tennessee, spoke on the growth and progress of the University.

The Student Bar also sponsored a touch football league which was won by a team representing the independent students. The big party of the quarter was held on October 14, following the U.T.-Georgia Tech football game.

New officers elected for the winter and spring quarter are: President, Jess Campbell, Lawrenceburg; Vice-President, John Buffalo, Memphis; Secretary, John Slack, Charleston; West Virginia; Treasurer, Saxby Chambliss, Darien, Ga.; Independent Representative to the S.B.A., Randy Humble, Knoxville. The representatives to the Law School Division of the American Bar Association are R. O. Smith, Knoxville, and Eugene Hollsworth, Dover, New Hampshire. Jim Everette is the new law school senator to the Student Government Association.

PAD Plans Conclave

General William Henry Eagle, retired Clerk of the Supreme Court of Tennessee for thirty years, spoke in connection with PAD's Inns of Court program this past quarter. McReynolds Chapter also initiated the PAD Effective Speaking Program through the help of Brother Ed Summers. This program is similar to the Toastmasters International program, and the response and enthusiasm have been tremendous. A successful party was held at the Officer's Club and a mixer at the Andrew Johnson Hotel. Preparations and plans for the District X Annual Conclave to be hosted by McReynolds Chapter in Knoxville at the Law College were highlighted by a visit from Judge Bridges of Birmingham.

Newly elected officers for the Winter and Spring quarters include: Jerry Hughes, Justice; Jim Conlin, Vice-Justice; Wallace Harvill, Clerk; Terry Wilson, Treasurer; and Elmer Rich, Marshall.

Delta Theta Phi News

This marks the first anniversary of the John Catron Senate of Delta Theta Phi International Law Fraternity. Over this past year much has been accomplished and much remains to be done.

A new program, which will be initiated in January of 1968, is one which is unique and will prove of very valuable experience to all lawyers, present and future. A law student, participating in this program, will have an opportunity to ride patrol during an entire evening with the Knoxville City police. This will provide an invaluable opportunity for the future lawyer to see what happens to a client before he comes into the lawyer's office.

Another program, which presents an ideal opportunity for experience in practice, is the Student Tribunal Lawyers' Committee. This committee headed by Mike Ellis and Mike Drake provides counsel and advice for all students at the University of Tennessee who go before the Student Tribunal.

These programs could not be successful without the full cooperation of the membership and of the officers. The officers for the winter and spring quarters of 1968 are: Dean—Frank Jablonski; Vice Dean—Rick Herod; Tribune—Peter Rosen; Clerk of the Exchequer—Glen Dresher; Clerk of the Rolls—Wayne Peters; Master of the Ritual—Richard Shapiro; and Bailiff—Shelly Diesenhouse.

The Dean Reports ...

teaching Trial and Appellate Practice, Federal Courts, and Civil Procedure.

There are now sixteen full-time faculty members including the Dean, and four part-time professors: Hal F. Burk, Jackson C. Kramer, Eugene Puett and Edwin H. Rayson. It is anticipated that at least one new faculty member will be added for the year 1968-1969.

The Trial Moot Court program is being conducted by the three Circuit Judges of Knox County: James M. Haynes, T. Edward Cole, and Chester R. Mahood. The Moot Court meets twice each week.

In the Legal Aid Clinic, in addition to Director Charles H. Miller and Toxey H. Sewell, Assistant Director, there are two full-time staff attorneys: Richard L. Hollow and James F. Pryor. There are three part-time staff attorneys: Robert W. Ritchie, Earl R. Layman and Charles H. Brown.

Our architect is working on final plans for an addition to the College of Law building. It is hoped that the plans may be submitted for bids in the Spring of 1968, and construction started in May or June. The addition will be to the north, that is, toward White Avenue. The new portion of the building will contain additional class and seminar rooms, a library reading room, faculty offices, the Legal Clinic and library stacks.

The Law College continues to have a pressing need for financial aid for scholarships and for assistance to needy and deserving students.

The College of Law Centurion Endowment Fund is growing. At present we have received over $12,000.00. I have expressed my appreciation to the many alumni who have contributed to the Centurion Endowment Fund. This year we plan to have a complete solicitation of our alumni through area and class chairmen. We have hopes of thereby including many new names in the Annual Giving for this Fund. If all lawyers who have graduated from the College of Law will regularly make an annual contribution, large or small, our Fund will soon grow into a real asset for the College. If some law firms or individuals wish to endow a named scholarship, as others have done in the past, this may be arranged through the Centurion Fund or on a separate basis.

We are continuing to assist our students in meeting their needs through the limited loan funds that are available. The primary sources of student loans are the University of Tennessee Loan Funds, the National Defense Educational Aid Fund, bank loans secured by The State Education Loan Corporation, and the American Bar Association Loan Fund.

The American Bar Association Loan Fund was started in 1965 and an allocation of funds was made to every law school accredited by the American Bar Association on the basis of an estimate of need and the availability of funds. The allocations to the College of Law are as follows: 1965-1966, $12,000; 1966-1967, $9,000; and 1967-1968, $13,000.

The Tennessee Bar Association for the past several years has been sponsoring an increasing number of continuing education programs for the Bench and Bar. The College of Law has supported these Bar Association programs by presenting interesting institutes and conferences which are enthusiastically received.

In the Fall of 1966, the Annual Southeastern Trial Lawyers Institute, co-sponsored with the Tennessee Bar Association, was held at the College of Law. This program was most successful and we are now planning our next Institute to be held in April 1968. In November 1966, the College of Law, the College of Business Administration, and the Internal Revenue Service co-sponsored a two day tax institute which was held in the Law College and in Nashville. In December 1966, the College of Law, the College of Business Administration, the Tennessee Bar Association, and the Tennessee Association of Accountants held the annual three day tax program in Memphis. These tax seminars are also currently being presented during the Fall of 1967.

In the Spring of 1967, the American Trial Lawyers Association presented an excellent one day program on Trial Advocacy designed especially for the students. Also, during April, 1967, the College of Law and the Delta Theta Phi legal fraternity held a one day Pre-Law Conference for pre-law advisors and students from colleges throughout the state.

In closing my annual progress report, I wish to extend to all of our alumni and their friends a cordial invitation to visit with us and learn about our rapidly expanding programs and our enthusiastic plans for the future of your College of Law.

HAROLD C. WARNER, Dean

Appellate Moot Court Competition

The College of Law was represented by three students in the Region Seven Round of the Eighteenth Annual National Moot Court Competition in Atlanta, Georgia on November 2nd and 3rd. Michael Drake, a seventh quarter student from Memphis; Edward M. Ellis, a seventh quarter student from Kingston; and William Humphreys, a fifth quarter student from Memphis, composed the U-T team. Joseph Cook, assistant professor of Law, was the faculty advisor.

This year's case dealt with the liability of an independent accounting firm to purchasers of a corporation's stocks and bonds who relied on the firm's negligent audit of the company's books.

U-T was defeated by the University of Georgia in a two-one decision. Georgia went on to finish second to the University of Miami in the overall competition and will go to New York for the finals.
