The Tradition Continues

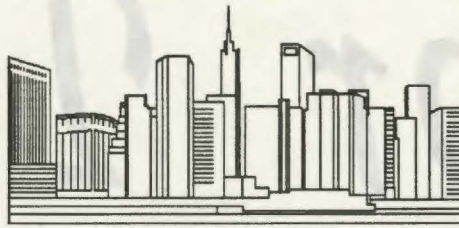

New Members of the Order of the Coif Elected

The following members of the Class of '91 were elected to the Order of the Coif, June 21, 1991. They are: Rodd W. Barckhoff, Pamela J. Byrd, Jeffrey A. Calk, Susan L. Christenberry, Mary D. Copeland, James M. Cornelius, Jr., Tony R. Dalton, Ronald G. Dobson, Kelly A. Gillikin, Peter D. Heil, Robert W. Horton, Robin M. Kimmelman, John E. Lippl, Kathleen F. Parsons, Sarah G. St. Onge and Joseph J. Welborn.

The Order of the Coif is a national law school honor society, election to which depends upon exceptional scholastic attainment. It is the highest honor regularly conferred by the College of Law.

Rodd Barckhoff will clerk for the Honorable Joseph B. Jones, Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals, in Memphis. Pam Byrd is associated with the Atlanta law firm of Dennis & Corry. Jeff Calk is associated with the law firm of Phillips, Hinchey & Reid in Atlanta. Susan Christenberry will clerk for the Honorable R. Allan Edgar, United States District Court, in Chattanooga. Mary Copeland will work in the Legal Department of the Department of Energy in Oak Ridge. Jim Cornelius and Peter Heil will clerk for the Tennessee Supreme Court, Jim in Knoxville and Peter in Nashville. Tony Dalton and Robert Horton are associated with the law firm of Baker, Worthington, Crossley, Stansberry & Woolf in their Knoxville office. Ronald Dobson is associated with the law firm of Miller & Martin in their Chattanooga office. Kelley Gillikin is associated with the law firm of Hunton & Williams in their Knoxville office. John Lippl is associated with the law firm of Kirkpatrick & Lockhart in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Sarah St. Onge will clerk for the Honorable H. Theodore Milburn, United States Court of Appeals, in Chattanooga. Joseph Welborn is associated with the law firm of Bass, Berry & Sims in their Nashville office.

Computer Training in Chicago by Sandy Selvage

I attended the first Conference for Law School Computing Professionals sponsored by the Center for Computer Assisted Legal Instruction (CALI) on June 7 & 8 in Chicago, Illinois. The conference was hosted by the Legal Education Automation Project (LEAP) whose goal is to help organize and support those who provide technical services to faculty, students, and administrators in the CALI member schools.

Mr. Keith Bellairs, acting executive director of the Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Instruction, spoke on the current activities going on at CALI as well as the July 1 release of CALI. The new release will include new exercises such as Buffalo Creek, Summary Judgment, Computer-Assisted Exercises on Civil Procedure, and Insurance Law. This year's release will also ask for student comments and collect them in order to better fit students' needs. Student tracking will require students to log into a specific exercise with a password. CALI will then record student I.D. and score in an encrypted file. There will be Performance recording which will collect aggregate data about the way each question in an exercise is answered. The outcome of this data collection will not be available for faculty in this release but will be offered in the 92-93 release.

CALI is also interested in third-party software. If professors are interested in writing a CALI program and getting it in future CALI exercise releases, contact me and I will get the information you need to do so.

Special thanks to Dean Yarbrough for her support and encouragement during the last three years. ----- Sandy TAYLOR TRIVIA: Why is our own Micki Fox taking a law class this summer? Answer to last month's Taylor Trivia: Law Library Director Bill Beintema was arrested on May 30 from the request of Holly Overton, EO's better half, during the annual fundraiser for cancer by the Knoxville Cancer Society. He was arrested for his 'sassy mouth.' Bill had to call friends to pledge a certain amount of money before he was released. It took him just thirty minutes to raise the bail money of two hundred dollars. The Law Library staff even contributed. Good cause, good effort, Bill!

Nominations have been made to the national office of The Order of Barristers in Austin, Texas for the Class of '91. The Order is a national honorary society that recognizes graduating law students who have excelled in moot court and mock trial activities. Nominees are Pamela J. Byrd, Wynne C. Hall, Robin P. Kimmelman, Scarlett A. May, David K. Overstreet, Jere F. Ownby III, Marty R. Phillips and Michael D. Randles.
