Kathleen Clark Receives Dean's Citation at Hooding

The Dean's Citation is a means of expressing special appreciation to law students who have been of tremendous service to the College of Law during their three years of study. Kathleen W. Clark excelled as the TLR editor-in-chief.

Kathy earned a B.A. in Political Science at the University of Maryland in 1970 and a Legal Assistant Certificate from the University of San Diego in 1989. As a law student, she received American Jurisprudence awards in Legal Process I and II, and a Vinson & Elkins Award for Law Review Writing.

From the time Kathy was elected editor-in-chief of the Tennessee Law Review in February 1992, she has devoted herself to the business of publishing a well-researched, scholarly, timely legal journal. In addition to the constant attention to each aspect of the publication process, Kathy has been extremely generous with her personal support. Her efforts have transformed the Law Review working environment into one that supports authors, editors, and staff. Last fall, she implemented a program to train new staff members in stackchecking skills.

Kathy has completed work on and has given print orders for the Winter and Spring 1992 issues and completed the publishing process for the Fall 1992 and Spring 1993 issues. The Spring 1993 issue is currently in the reading of final drafts stage. As a result of her hard work and dedication, the incoming board can work on their own issues and on the candidacy program.
