TAYLOR TRIVIA: What was the McReynolds Club?
Answer to last month's Taylor Trivia: The first law alumni directory was compiled by John M. Smartt, Class of 1948, in 1959 in conjuncture with the General Alumni Association of the University of Tennessee. According to the most common definition, an alumnus of a college or university is any former student who successfully completed one or more quarters of work in the institution. That definition was observed in compiling both the first directory and the newest one just published as part of our Centennial celebration.
